

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

FACTORY INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

Harrisburg, Penna., November 30, 1901.

To Hon. Wm. A. Stone, Governor of the Commonwealth:

Sir: In compliance with the Act of the General Assembly, I submit the twelfth annual report of the Department of Factory Inspection for the year ending October 31, 1901. It is gratifying that I am able to report the continuation of the prosperous condition of the employment of labor that existed in 1900. Owing to the sickness of one of the deputies in Allegheny county, there were establishments employing over 75,000 people that were not inspected. That number added to the number of employees reported, would show an increase over last year.

Accidents.

There were 2,334 accidents reported, 223 less than last year. One hundred and three of that number were fatal, 10 less than the year 1900. Three hundred and forty-five were serious, 134 less than the year 1900, and 1,886 were less serious, 79 less than last year. The law enacted by the last General Assembly gives the Department more power to investigate accidents and will, in my judgment, result in more care being taken to guard against accidents, thereby reducing the number of injuries and fatalities.

Fire Escapes.

Experience has demonstrated beyond a doubt that for buildings four or more stories high, the outside, open, iron fire escape is not always a safe means of escape in case of fire. The late disastrous fire on Market street, Philadelphia, where the building was properly equipped with outside, open, iron fire escapes, proved that this means of escape in case of such a fire was of no account, from the fact that a number of people were burned to death in attempting to descend the escapes. The General Assembly should enact a law providing for better means of egress in case of fire for high buildings. The tower escape, recommended to the Legislature in 1897, by William C. Haddock, now director of public works, in Philadelphia, is the safest and most complete means of egress yet presented to the public.

In the annual report of 1900 I recommended a number of changes and additions to the laws governing factory inspection. Most of them were enacted into law and are now in operation. The additional work imposed upon the department was wise and just, but there was a mistake made in not giving the department the amount of help asked for, and, with the additional work that these new laws imposed upon the Department, there is not now sufficient force to give the required care and attention for the proper enforcement of the laws.

For the two years ending May 31, 1901, there were appropriated $20,000 for the payment of the traveling expenses, hotel bills, postage, expressage, etc., of the twenty deputies and Inspector. There was an unexpended balance of $2,490.57 of the amount returned to the State Treasurer.

Very truly yours,

JAMES CAMPBELL,
Factory Inspector.

DECISION OF JUDGE BIDDLE, OF PHILADELPHIA, IN RE
COMMONWEALTH VS. ROBERT BEATTY AND JOHN R.
BEATTY.

Commonwealth	}	The following decision in reference to the Factory Law of 1897 will ex- plain itself:
vs.

DEMURRER TO INDICTMENT.

The indictment in this case charges the defendants with the violation of the provisions of the act of Assembly of April 29th, 1897. The pertinent sections of this act which are charged to be violated are comprised in the first and fourteenth sections, to-wit:

Section 1. That no minor, male or female, or adult woman, shall be employed at labor or detained in any manufacturing establishment, mercantile industry, laundry, work shop, renovating works or printing office, for any longer period than twelve hours in any day, nor for a longer period than sixty hours in any week.

Section 14. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this act, or who suffers any child or female to be employed in violation of its provisions, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500.

To this the defendants have demurred, contending, inter alia, that the act, in so far as it applies to adult women, is contrary to the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania, because it is an unjust interference with her right of acquiring and possessing property and pursuing her own happiness; that it is also contrary to the Constitution of the United States, because it is an attempt to deprive her of liberty and property without due process of law.

The title of the act of April 29th, 1897, is "An act to regulate the employment and provide for the health and safety of men, women and children in manufacturing establishments, mercantile industries, laundries and renovating works and printing offices, and to provide for the appointment of inspectors, office clerks and others to enforce the same."

So that the object of the enactment as expressed by the Legislature is "to provide for the health and safety of men, women and children" in certain kinds of labor. This exercise of power, if it exists at all, must be deprived from the police power of the State, and the real question here is whether it has been properly exercised.

In the great manufacturing State of Massachusetts, see Commonwealth vs. Hamilton Mfg. Co., 120 Mass. 383, in considering an almost identical statute, Mr. Justice Lore says:

"It does not forbid any person, firm or corporation, from employing as many persons or as much labor as such person, firm or corporation may desire, nor does it forbid any person to work as many hours a day or week as he chooses. It merely provides that in an employment which the Legislature has evidently deemed to some extent dangerous to health, no person shall be engaged more than ten hours a day or sixty hours a week.

"There can be no doubt that such legislation may be maintained, either as a health or police regulation, if it were necessary to resort to either of those sources for power. This principle has been so frequently recognized in this Commonwealth that reference to the decisions is unnecessary."

Mr. Justice Brown in the Supreme Court of the United States says:

"This right of contract, however, is itself subject to certain limitations which the State may lawfully impose in the exercise of its police powers. While this power is inherent in all governments, it has doubtless been greatly extended in its application during the past century owing to an enormous increase in the number of occupations which are dangerous, or so far detrimental to, the health of employes as to demand special precautions for their well-being and protection or the safety of adjacent property, while this court has held, notably in the case of Davidson vs. New Orleans, 96 U. S. 97 (24, 616) and Yick Wo vs. Hopkins, 116 U. S. 356 (30:230) that while the police power cannot be put forward as an excuse for oppressive and unjust legislation, it may be lawfully resorted to for the purpose of preserving the public health, safety or morals, or the abatement of public nuisances, and a large discretion is necessarily vested in the Legislature to determine not only what the interests of the public require, but what measures are necessary for the protection of such interests." Lawler vs. Steele, 152 U. S. 133-136. (38:385:388).

In Pennsylvania the existence of the police power is recognized in numerous instances in our courts as a necessary function of government. Judge Rice, in Comm. vs. Brown, 8 Superior Ct. Rep. 351, says: "In the exercise of the police power of the State, it may enact laws in the interest of public morals, and to protect the lives, health and safety of persons following specific callings, and thus indirectly interfere with freedom of contract." And our Constitution specially provides, Art. XVI, Sec. 3, that "The exercise of police power of the State shall never be abridged or so construed as to permit corporations to conduct their business in such manner as to infringe the equal right of individuals of the general well-being of the State."

Surely an act which prevents the mothers of our race from being tempted to endanger their lives and health by exhaustive employment, can be condemned by none save those who expect to profit by it. The complaint of violated constitutional rights, it will be observed, does not come from those who are employed, but from those who employ them.

The Legislature has spoken in no uncertain words on this subject, and our Supreme Court has declared that "a statute will be declared unconstitutional by the court only when it violates the Constitution clearly, palpably, plainly and in such manner as to leave no doubt for hesitation in our minds." Sharpless vs. Phila., 21, Pa. 147.

We think that this act is clearly within the police power of the State, and the exercise of it in this case justified by the interests of the individual and the community.

Other point of demurrer in addition to those we have discussed were also very ably argued before us, but we are unable to perceive their application to the case before us.

The demurrer, therefore, to this bill of indictment is overruled.

DECISION OF THE SUPERIOR COURT

COMMONWEALTH vs. R. AND J. R. BEATTY,

FILED JULY 26, 1900.

Commonwealth of Penn- sylvania vs. Robert Beatty and John R. Beatty.	}	No. 234 October Term, 1899. Appeal from the court of quarter sessions of Philadelphia county. Judgment affirmed.

Filed July 26, 1900. Orlady, J.

An indictment against these defendants under the act of April 29, 1897, P. L. 30, was returned a true bill by the grand jury. A demurrer was filed thereto which after argument, was overruled, a judgment was entered for the Commonwealth, and the defendants were sentenced. On argument in this court the specifications of error are urged under two propositions: 1. The indictment does not charge a crime known to the laws of the State. 2. The act on which the indictment is based is in contravention of the constitution of the State and of the United States.

The title of the act is as follows: "To regulate the employment and provide for the health and safety of men, women and children, in manufacturing establishments, mercantile industries, laundries, renovating works or printing offices, and to provide for the appointment of inspectors, office clerks and others to enforce the same."

The first and fourteenth sections of the act are the ones alleged to have been violated, and the arguments of counsel have been confined to the consideration of those, viz: "Section 1. That no minor, male or female, or adult woman shall be employed at labor or detained in any manufacturing establishment, mercantile industry, laundry, workshop, renovating works or printing office for a longer period than twelve hours in one day, nor for a longer period than sixty hours in any week." "Section 14. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this act, or who suffers or permits any child or female to be employed in violation of its provisions, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars."

Therefore the offense charged was not indictable; and it is set out in the indictment in the exact words of the act of Assembly which created it. The defendants could not have been misled as to the nature of the offense they were called upon to answer. It is sufficient in form under our procedure act of 1860, which requires only a substantial conformity with the act prohibiting the offense and prescribing its punishment.

The title to the act fairly invites an examination of the contents of the bill by all who employ men, women or children in the establishments, industries, works or offices mentioned, and everything which the nature of the subject of a title reasonably suggests as necessary or appropriate for the accomplishment of the expressed purpose is sufficiently indicated by the title: Com. v. Jones, 4 Pa. Superior Ct., 362. To regulate the employment and provide for the health and safety of men, women and children in industrial establishments, necessarily implies that rules and methods of government, permissive, mandatory and prohibitive are within the contemplation of the Legislature, and an enforced submission to the regulating agencies is implied through the imposition of penalties.

There has been a general disposition to construe the constitutional provision liberally, rather than to embarrass legislation by a construction the strictness of which is necessary to the accomplishment of the beneficial purposes for which it has been adopted: Cooley's Conts. Lim. 175. The title need not be a complete index to the bill. (Mauch Chunk v. Magee, 81 Pa. 433), if it fairly gives notice of the subject of the act so as reasonably to lead into an inquiry into the body of the bill, it is all that is necessary. Allegheny County Home's Case, 77 Pa. 77.

The appellants contend that the act is in violation of the State constitution, article 1, section 1, in that it is an unjust interference with an adult female's right of acquiring and possessing property, and of pursuing her own happiness; and in violation of article 3, section 7, in that it is a special law regulating labor.

It is a matter of history in our State that this act of Assembly is the result of extended legislative examination into the management of our varied industrial institutions, which has been conducted by legislative committees, and through our factory and mine inspection bureaus. It is one of a system which has developed in proportion to the growth and prosperity of the State, and when we consider that nearly a million of laborers, men, women and minors, are employed in the industries mentioned in the title of this act, it is apparent that legislation to regulate their employment and provide for their health and safety is an imperative necessity.

By section 2 of the act of April 21, 1849, P. L. 672, labor performed during a period of ten hours on any secular day in all cotton, woolen, silk, paper, bagging and flax factories, shall be considered a legal day's labor, and by a supplement to that act of May 7, 1855, P. L. 472, no male or female operators under the age of twenty-one years can be employed under any contract in these manufactories for a longer period than sixty hours in any one week—or more than an average of ten hours a day during the same period. A progressive step was taken by the act of June 3, 1893, P. L. 276, by which a new department of the State government was created, namely that of Factory Inspector. By this act all employes of women or children or either, in any factory, manufactory, mercantile establishment, renovating works, or laundry, are required to post and keep posted a notice stating the number of hours per day for each day of the week required of such persons, and the inspector was given visitorial powers over factories, workshops and other establishments employing women and children and was directed to make report of the number of hands employed in each with the maximum number of hours of work performed each week. With the light given by the results of the previous legislation on this important subject the act under consideration was enacted.

By article 16, section 3, our State Constitution declares that "the exercise of the police power of the State shall never be abridged." This inherent power of government is vested in the Legislature to make such laws as they shall judge to be for the good of the Commonwealth, and the exercise of it has been left to the individual states to determine primarily what measures are appropriate or needful for the protection of the public morals, the public health, or the public safety, subject to the power of the courts to adjudge whether any particular law is an invasion of the rights of the Constitution: Mugler vs. Kansas City, 123 U. S. 205, Book 31, L. C. P. Co.

The police power of the State is difficult of definition, but it has been held by the courts to be the right to prescribe regulations for the good order, peace, health, protection, comfort, convenience and morals of the community which does not encroach on a like power vested in Congress or State Legislatures by the Federal Constitution, or does not violate the provision of the organic law; and it has been expressly held that the fourteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution was not designed to interfere with the exercise of that power by the State: Powell vs. Penna., 127 U. S. 678; Powell vs. Com., 114 Pa. 205. Its essential quality as a governmental agency is that it imposes upon persons and property burdens designed to promote the safety and welfare of the public at large. The principle that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property, without due process of law, was embodied in substance in the constitutions of nearly all, if not all, of the states at the time of the adoption of the fourteenth amendment, and it has never been regarded as incompatible with the principle, equally vital because equally essential to the peace and safety of society, that all property in this country is held under the implied obligation that the owner's use of it shall not be injurious to the community: Boston Beer Co. vs. Massachusetts, 97 U. S. 32.

A prohibition upon unhealthy practices, whether inherently so, or such as may become so by reason of prolonged and exacting physical exertion which is likely to result in enfeebled or diseased bodies, and thereby directly or consequently affecting the health, safety or morals of the community, cannot in any just sense be deemed a taking or an appropriation of property.

The length of time a laborer shall be subjected to the exhaustive exertion of physical labor is as clearly within legislative control as is the governmental inspection of boilers, machinery, etc., to avoid accidents, or of the sanitary conditions of factories and the like to preserve the health of laborers.

The power to legislate on this subject is inherent in all free governments, and is limited only by the Constitution. It must be asserted within reasonable limits. And when we consider that the federal government has fixed eight hours as a day's work for all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by or on behalf of it (Reb. Stat. sec. 3738), and that our own State has fixed the same number of hours as a day's labor in all of our penal institutions (Act of May 20, 1891, P. L. 100), and for all mechanics, workmen and laborers in the employ of the State, or any municipal corporation therein (Act of July 26, 1897, P. L. 418), and that electric railway companies are prohibited from permitting or suffering any of their employes to work more than twelve hours in one day (Act of March 24, 1887, P. L. 13), and that in all cotton, woolen, silk, paper bagging and flax factories, ten hours of any secular day shall be considered a legal day's labor (acts of 1849 and 1855 above mentioned), it cannot be held to be unreasonable to fix the time of labor for adult females at twelve hours a day or not more than sixty hours a week in the establishments named in this act.

If such legislation savors of paternalism, it is in its least objectionable form, in that it cares for those who from their own necessities, ambition, or the cupidity of their employers, may be prompted or required to jeopardize their health in unreasonable and dangerous employment, which in the legislative judgment, founded upon statistical experience injuriously affects their health, and hence the interests of the State itself. It is of the same character of legislation which prohibits the employment of females in or about coal mines, and of minors in trades, etc., which labor arrests or impairs the natural development of mind and body. The State at large is more interested than either employer or employee in preserving that natural physical condition which assures to the individual the most of health and happiness and is least likely to transmit physical, mental or moral effects to succeeding generations. The Legislature has adjudged that the health of adult females is imperiled by being employed at labor in establishments named for a longer time than stated in the act. The adult females, or even the employer, may think otherwise, but self interests from a financial standpoint is often an unsafe guide. "Though reasonable doubts may exist as to the power of the Legislature to pass a law, or as to whether the law is calculated or adapted to promote the health, safety or comfort of the people, or to secure good order, or promote the general welfare, we must resolve them in favor of that department of government." State vs. Holden, 37 L. R. A. 108. "The Legislature has recognized the fact which the experience of legislators in many states has corroborated, that the proprietors of these establishments and their operatives do not stand upon an equality, and that their interests are to a certain extent conflicting." Holden vs. Hardy, 169 Pa. U. S. 366; Book 42, L. ed. 780.

The whole argument in this case is based on the injury done to the adult females whose right to labor as long as they please is alleged to be violated. The remarks of the court in Holden vs. Hardy, 14 Utah 71, are applicable here. "The argument would certainly come with better grace and greater cogency from the latter class. But the fact that both parties are of full age and competent to contract does not necessarily deprive the state of the power to interfere, when the parties do not stand upon an equality, or when the public health demands that one party to the contract shall be protected against himself. The state still retains an interest in his welfare, however reckless he may be. The whole is no greater than the sum of all the parts, and when the individual health, safety and welfare are sacrificed, the state must suffer."

This declaration was adopted by the United States Supreme Court in Holden vs. Hardy, 169 U. S. 366, 42 L. ed. 780, in validating a state statute which limited the employment of men in underground mines, smelting works, etc., to eight hours a day.

The object of such legislation is the good of the public as well as of the individual. The fact that the individual is willing to waive protection cannot avail. The public good is entitled to protection and consideration; and if, in order to effectuate that object, there must be enforced protection to the individual, such individual must submit to such enforced protection for the public good. The statute was enacted as a remedy for such evil. Short vs. Mining Co., 45 L. R. A. 603. In the exercise of its police power the State may enact laws in the interest of public morals, and to protect the lives, health and safety of persons following specified callings and may thus indirectly interfere with the freedom of contract. Lawler vs. Steele, 152 U. S. 133; Com. vs. Brown, 8 Pa., Superior Ct. 351. It is undisputed that some employments may be admissible for males and yet improper for females, and regulations recognizing and forbidding women to engage in such would be open to no reasonable objection. The same is true of young children whose employment in mines and manufactories is commonly and ought always to be regulated. In addition to the power to punish misdemeanor and felonies, the State has also the authority to make extensive and varied regulations as to the time, mode and circumstances in and under which parties shall assert, enjoy or exercise these rights without coming in conflict with any of those constitutional principles which are established for the protection of private rights or private property. Cooley's Const. Lim. 745, 6th ed. It is the prerogative of the Legislature to prescribe regulations founded on nature, reason and experience in determining the kind of labor and the length of time it shall be permitted by either men, women or minors. Sex imposes limitations to excessive or long continued physical labor, as certainly as does minority, and the arrested development of children is no more dangerous to the State than debilitating so large a class of our citizens as adult females by undue and unreasonable physical labor. In overruling the demurer the court below pertinently said: Surely an act which prevents the mothers of our race from being tempted to endanger their life and health by exhaustive employment can be condemned by none save those who expect to profit by it." The complaint of violated constitutional rights, it will be observed, does not come from those who are employed, but from those who employ them. The proper office of statutes is to remedy the defects and modify the operation of common law rules in order to meet changed conditions in society and increased volume and improved methods in business. Com. vs. Vrooman, 164 Pa. 316.

In view of our many mining and manufacturing industries, the solicitous care of government over the health and safety of the laborers is an important branch of legislative duties. It is not a denial of the right to contract. Labor in the establishment mentioned in the act is permitted, but in the legislative judgment, it is not good for the State at large, as it now is, and as it is intended to continue, that adult females should labor a greater number of hours than mentioned in the act. If employes, without regard to sex, are required or permitted to perform labor in fixed places where but few of the muscles of the body are used, where the temperature is abnormal, where chemicals are employed and the air is impoverished by, or laden with, noxious gases and impalpable particles, the physical tension and nervous strain consequent upon such employment for an unreasonable time must of necessity produce an appreciable and dangerous effect on the health of the employe so exposed. Adult females are a class as distinct as minors, separated by natural conditions from all other laborers, and are so constituted as to be unable to endure physical exertion and exposure to the extent and degree that is not harmful to adult males; and employments which under favorable conditions are not injurious are rightly limited as to time by this statute, so as not to become harmful by prolonged engagements.

The conflict of decisions on the question of the power to limit contracts between master and servants is marked, and it is far from settled. In the interest of public policy in this State the trend of the decisions in Com. vs. Brown, 8 Pa. Superior Ct. 339, Com. vs. Hamilton Mfg. Co. 120 Mass. 383; 163 Mass. 339, and Holden vs. Hardy, 169 U. S. 266, 42 L. ed. 78, is more likely to furnish better results, and secure greater health to the Commonwealth, rather than the class of cases of which Ritchie vs. The People, 155 Ill. 98, L. R. A. 79, is most frequently cited.

Class legislation discriminating against some and favoring others, is prohibited, but legislation which, in carrying out a public purpose, is limited in its application, if within the sphere of its operation, and if it affects all persons similarly situated is not within the fourteenth amendment. Barlier vs. Connelly, 113 U. S. 27, 28, L. ed. 923; Minneapolis & St. Paul Ry. vs. Beckwith, 129 U. S. 29, U. S. 32 L. ed., 585.

The act cannot be said to be a local or special law "regulating labor, trade, mining or manufacturing," in violation of article 3, section 7, when it applies to all adult females alike throughout the State who are employed in the establishments mentioned in the act. It relates to and distinctly defines the class of persons affected by it. Wheeler vs. Phila., 77 Pa. 338; Durkin vs. Kingston Coal Co., 171 Pa. 192; Com. vs. Jones, Pa. Superior Ct. 362.

The assignments of error are overruled and the judgment in the court below is affirmed.

M. N. BAKER, Inspector.

Corry, Pa.,
November 1st, 1901.

Mr. James Campbell,
Chief Factory Inspector,
Harrisburg, Pa.:

Dear Sir: In closing the work in the 17th district for 1901, nothing can be added to former suggestions. The work has increased to such proportions that it is much more difficult than formerly.

Not only have mammoth mills been erected, but in every locality new mills have sprung into existence and are working the full limit.

Factory legislation is well received and gladly observed.

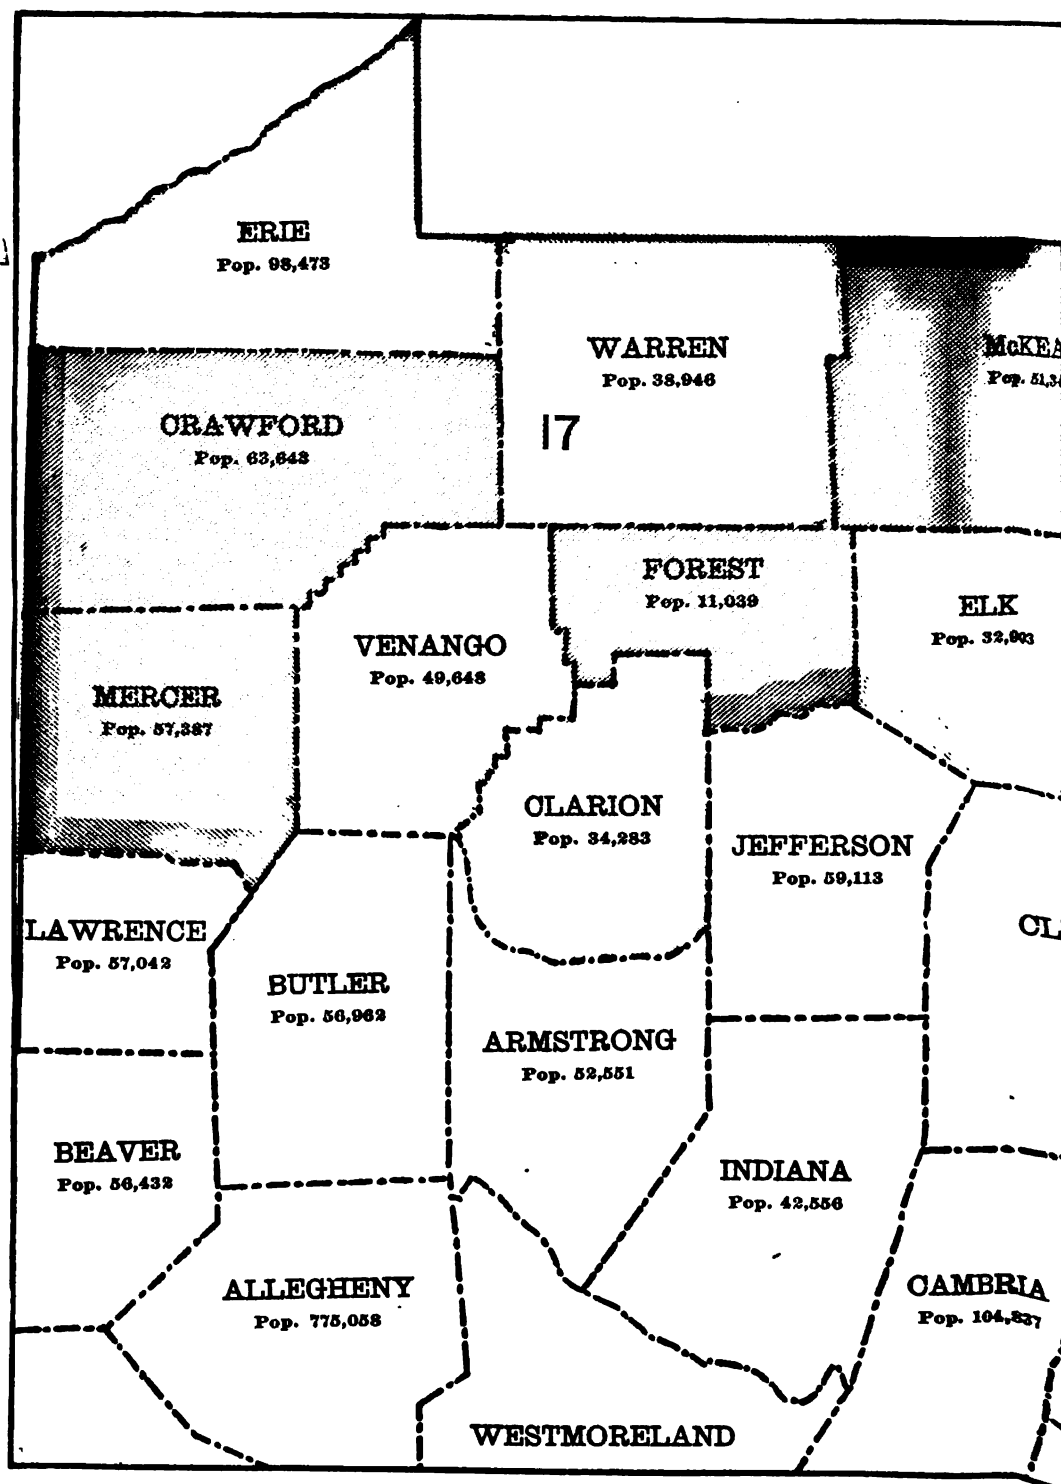

Thanking you for kindness and assistance, I am

Very truly,

M. N. BAKER.

To secure employment every child must procure a certificate from the school authorities to the effect that the school laws are complied with, and it shall contain the age and birthplace of such child, and be kept on file for reference by the employer.

Hours of labor.

No female under 18 years of age and no male under 16 years of age shall work more than ten hours per day or sixty hours per week. Male minors over 16 years of age, with consent of parents, may contract to work longer hours, otherwise ten hours is a legal day's work for such minors. The same rule applies to women over 18 years of age, with provision that the limit of over-time for women shall not exceed six hours in any one week or sixty hours in one year. Employers must post in every room where minors and women are employed, a notice in large type regulating the hours of labor for such persons.

tion. Public buildings and school rooms come under the factory laws providing for sanitation and ventilation. Wherever manufacturing machinery is propelled by steam, suitable communication must be provided between each room where such machinery is placed in the engine room, in order to control the motive power in case of accident. Machinery other than steam engines must not be cleaned while running if objected to by an inspector. The openings for hoistways, hatchways, well holes, and elevators in all buildings must be protected in such a manner as inspectors may direct and any elevator deemed dangerous or unsafe by an inspector shall be placarded as such, and its use prohibited until made safe.

Protection from fire and other disaster.

The chief inspector can compel all persons and corporations employing twenty-five or more persons to pay employes their wages weekly, excepting when the railroad commissioners shall exempt any railroad corporation from the provisions of this act, if, in their opinion, any of the employes of said corporation wish less frequent payment.

The system of grading work now or at any time hereafter used by the manufacturers shall in no way effect the wages of a weaver except for imperfections in his own work, and in no case shall the wages of those engaged in weaving be affected by fines or otherwise, unless the imperfections complained of are first exhibited and pointed out by the person or persons whose wages are to be effected, and no fine shall be imposed upon any person for imperfect weaving, unless the provisions of this act are first complied with, and the amount of the fines agreed upon by both parties.

Fines.
